Everything in Nettie's life is changing again. Her relationship with Andrew Wyatt is over, and her father is engaged to her enemy's mother. But as her sophomore year approaches, Nettie realizes that not all the changes in her life are bad. Her new love, Derek Peters, makes her smile every day. Her relationship with best friend Elisa is stronger than ever. And her new friendship with fast-talking Lennon Eamesly definitely makes life more entertaining. Surrounded by a good group of friends, and with the support of her loving mother and stepfather, Nettie prepares for her second year of high school. As for Andrew, things aren't exactly going according to plan. Somehow, Nettie slipped through his fingers and into the arms of another, and his sister Jenna's life is crumbling right before his eyes. As if that isn't enough to deal with, there's also the ever-mounting pressure of his football career. Andrew is not exactly looking forward to his sophomore year, but he does have a plan: have a winning football season, and win back the girl of his dreams. In the third installment of the Nettie series, A Little Faith, Nettie and Andrew struggle to remain friends after their breakup while learning that secrets not only have a way of revealing themselves, but very often explode and threaten to ruin everything.
